Mollyockett fireworks a glorious non-event

The annual Mollyockett Day fireworks display was a thundering dud this year—when the fireworks company's shooter failed to show, and thousands of eager spectators went home disappointed.

Eric Hake, owner of Blue Hill Pyrotechnics, of Bangor, said his company took full responsibility for the fizzle, which he blamed on an administrative mix-up.

To make up for the mistake, he said the company would put on a bigger and better show this Saturday (July 27), and would also donate $200 to a local charity.

"We will be there next Saturday, and we will give you one spectacular show," Hake said.

The annual fireworks display is sponsored by Bethel Inn and Sunday River Ski Resort. Inn owner Dick Rasor said the contracts for the event had all been signed, the deposit received, and approval signed by the state fire marshal.

(Rasor also provided the Citizen with copies of contracts, deposit receipts and fire marshal's approval—to help quell the rumors that inevitably circulated regarding the reason for the cancellation.)

"We always go right down to the wire with the fire marshal," Rasor said. This year despite the dry conditions, approval was received two days before the scheduled show.

Many in the large crowd of disappointed spectators had waited hours in the Mollyockett Day heat for the show. "Rasor said he shared their surprise and disappointment. 'I had eight people at my house waiting to watch the show,'" he said.

Hake said his company has been in business for 30 years, and that things like this have happened in the past, but rarely. Blue Hill puts on approximately 125 shows a year, he said, and the Mollyockett Day display was one of six scheduled for last weekend.

Rasor said there were some positive aspects to the postponement. Admitting he was trying to put the best possible "spin" on the situation, he said that the fireworks show will now make a spectacular ending for Greenwood's 175th anniversary celebration, as well as for the Inn's own member/guest golf day, and would bring big crowds into Bethel one more time—which local merchants should appreciate.

UNDAUNTED BY THE HAZY, HOT AND HUMID WEATHER, thousands of people turned out once again for this year's Mollyockett Day festivities. Organizers and merchants report that this year's numbers were down.

what due to the heat, but those who did show up all seemed to enjoy a fine fair day with plenty to do and eat.

Businesses up support of Project Opportunity

The Bethel Savings Bank, the Bank of Boston, The Betterment Fund, The Sunday River Ski Resort and four individuals have contributed a total of $54,252 to Project Opportunity, a unique scholarship program aimed at increasing student aspirations and providing scholarship support for students in Western Maine's School Administrative District #44, which serves students in Bethel and its surrounding towns.

The Bethel Savings Bank has committed an additional $5000, bringing its total contribution to date to $10,000. The Betterment Fund has contributed an additional $10,000 bringing its total to $20,000; Sunday River has contributed another $15,000 of its total commitment of $165,000. Citing its relationship with Sunday River and its interest in New England's economic strength, The Bank of Boston has contributed $15,000. Mr. Edward Wollenberg of Kennebunkport has boosted the Project's $7,000, and Ms. Ellen Mendel, Ms. Mary Gillies, and Ms. Mildred Otten have made personal contributions. Additionally, a number of individuals have made contributions totaling $2,027 in honor of Ms. Otten's 80th birthday.

Christian camp on Lake Twitchell awaits blessing of G'wood planners

The cove at the southeasterly end of Lake Twitchell has been proposed as the site for a Christian youth camp.

The board of directors of Camp Good News have purchased a 46-acre lot surrounding the cove. If the project gains approval, construction would begin this fall, according to board member Harold Clukey of Woodstock.

Clukey said that the camp planners have appeared before the Greenwood Planning Board to discuss the plan. Camp Good News would include a chapel, dining hall, administrative building, shower and toilet facilities and 12 camps, each housing eight campers and two counselors.

The camp planners must meet all of Greenwood's shoreland zoning ordinances. They are also seeking the approval of the state Department of Environmental Protection for planned improvements to the existing private road on the property, Clukey said. The road would not be widened, he said, just firmed up.

The proposed site is the home of the former Christian "Camp Agape." Clukey said 25 years ago a local clergyman operated the former camp, but that time and vandalism have since destroyed the old camp's buildings.

Camp Good News currently operates out of Circle L Camp in Turner, Clukey said. The group owns no campground of its own. He said the new camp will attract students from all over the state.

Current plans call for the camp to operate six weeks out of the summer with mostly volunteer help, Clukey said. About 75 campers per week will attend at a cost of about $65 for the six days. "Children from any church can apply," he said. "If they can't afford it then they can apply for scholarships. Any kid that wants to go can go."

Project Opportunity was created three years ago by Leslie B. Otten, President of the Sunday River Ski Resort, and a consortium of local community, business and educational leaders. The team sought to provide a means to encourage improved scholastic performance among local students.

"The economic base of the region is changing fast," said Otten. "The days when a kid could drop out of school, buy a chainsaw and make a living as a logger are going fast. Forestry and agriculture have become increasingly mechanized, and many of the local manufacturing companies have either automated or closed down. As the economy shifts, there's a need for skilled people with vocational or college training—but many of the area's families historically have not needed advanced education, and many find that training beyond their financial capability. We created Project Opportunity to provide a means

Westies Rick Whitney is Pine Tree League MVP

By BOB MCPHEE

Westies power-hitter Rick Whitney has been named the Pine Tree League's Most Valuable Player for the 1991 season.

The Westies notched a 14-4 regular season record. They begin playoff action Sunday at 2 p.m., at Perham Field in West Paris.

Whitney, 33, who became the third West Paris player and first outfielder to win the Ionta MVP Award in its four-year history, received three votes to edge teammate Gary Williamson also of Bethel and Nat Harris of Oxford Hills, each of whom received two votes.

Whitney batted .489 for the season and knocked in 39 RBIs. Williams batted .554 with 20 RBIs.

"I was very surprised to get it especially with Williamson and Harris having such good years," Whitney said. "It's a special feeling for me to win because I played for Betsy Ionta—who the award is named for—at Dixfield from 1980 to 1983."

The 15-year PTL veteran also played for Bethel for three seasons. He's played for West Paris from 1984 to the present.

Whitney, the first outfielder chosen for the award, began the season with six home runs in six straight games. The 1976 Telstar Regional High School graduate finished with a team-record 14 home runs—nine coming after the fifth inning—to break Peter Blake's record of 12 set in the Westies' 1984 championship season. He batted .485, with 33 hits scored 30 runs scored, had a league leading 39 runs batted in, four doubles and 85 total bases.

"I never thought Peter's record would ever be broken, but you'd never know Patrick broke it," West Paris coach Mark Thurlow said. "Rick is a very quiet, modest person who does his job with no complaining. He's very unselfish on an off the field, which makes him a pleasure to be around."

Whitney was the Westies' No. 4 hitter and coach strong-hitting teammates around him for getting such good pitches to hit. The Westies have one of the most potent offenses in the league, beginning with tablespatters Williamson and Levi Brown (53 combined RBIs), through to Nos. 5-7 batters.

New Bethel Biathlon a bang for runners

Two of the most popular participant sports in America are running and shooting. The obvious has happened, they have been combined to form yet another biathlon event—summer biathlon.

The Kingsbury Summer Biathlon Series stops in Bethel on August 4, 10:30 a.m. at Gould Academy Cross-Country Trails. About 100 entrants, most of them competing for the first time, are expected.

Summer Biathlon combines a 5-kilometer run with 22-caliber rifle shooting. Participants run into the shooting range, walk to a shooting lane, pick up a rifle, shoot 5 shots, and then proceed with the run. Each missed target results in a 30-second penalty added to the running time.

This new biathlon is modeled after the winter Olympic biathlon. More countries compete in biathlon (cross-country skiing and rifle shooting) during the winter Olympics than in any other sport.

Four-time Olympic biathlete Lyle Nelson believes the summer sport will become more popular than its winter parent. "So many runners are

About our new look

It won't last—we hope.

The Citizen plans to switch to newer computer type-setting equipment in the not-too-far distant future, which will provide us with lots of snazzy new design possibilities and greatly simplify our production process.

But what you hold in your hands is hardly a prototype.

Earlier this week, as we were in the middle of putting out this week's edition, our old typesetter gave up the ghost. It will be fixed this week, but that wouldn't help with this issue. So, after tossing around a lot of options, we elected to run out the remainder of this week's copy at the Lewiston Sun-Journal.

This fix worked, sort of. We got the paper out, but as you can see, the Sun-Journal typesetters and formats are a bit different than The Citizen's.

We hope our readers will treat this week's somewhat ragged, mix-and-match appearance as a novelty, perhaps even regard the paper as a collector's edition.

Close readers will also note that all the hustling to get the paper out on time took a big bite out of our proof-reading time. As a result, there are no doubt a few more typos, outright misspellings and other assorted glitches than would usually find their way into print.

Perhaps it would be an interesting camp game, on a long, hot afternoon, to see who can find the most of these. Thanks for your patience. We'll try hard to be back in form by next week.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Route 26 in Locke Mills will be closed to traffic from approximately 11 a.m. to 12 noon on July 27, 1991. Rain date July 28, 1991.

NTL DECISION REFLECTS SHALLOW, 1980S' VALUES

To the Editor:

Here's but another letter in the ongoing sea of the NTL/Bethel debate. I too side with those who, along with co-founder, Ken Benne, simply "don't get it." Perhaps this decision would have been more understandable ten years ago when our society was deeply mired in the age of glitz, fast money and shallow values. Because of the lessons that we're coming to learn from our less than stellar behavior of the '80s, I would think that Mr. Joseph and the current principals at NTL would be far less concerned with "slick brochures" and more determined than ever to perpetuate the tradition and deep-seated values that the NTL-Bethel relationship has come to signify throughout the world.

Who is this "new breed of participant" anyway? Isn't he or she the very person who is on a personal journey to be able to start that journey on Route 26 with the lake areas of Poland and Locke Mills greeting one along the way. As a corporate manager, participant in NTL's Human Interaction and Centering Labs, and Newry property owner for nine years, Bethel and NTL have been a source of solace and rebirth for me. I can't imagine what NTL believes it's going to find elsewhere that a few air conditioners and fresh coats of paint could not accomplish in Bethel. If NTL is truly committed to social change, it should continue to invite its participants to an environment which represents the essence of integrity, tradition, and community values upon which our social change efforts must be built.

I wonder if attending a Human Interaction Lab in a downtown Hilton (with airplanes zooming overhead) will confer the commitment required for personal and social change as I believe it has been when the experience is coupled with the natural habitat afforded by a place as beautiful as Bethel.

TRAILER WASN'T TRASH

To the Editor:

This letter is in regards to the picture of the abandoned trailer in Albany that appeared in Lewiston Sun-Journal on July 1.

The trailer belongs to me. It is sitting on my land and I plan to use it for a storage shed. I am in the process of removing my old house and preparing the site for a trailer. Someone is there every day working on the site and the dog is well taken care of.

My advice to whoever is taking these pictures and making complaints should get their facts straight or they might end up with a lawsuit on their hands.

CONSERVATION EASEMENTS STILL A USEFUL TOOL

To the Editor:

I hope that the rejection by the Bethel Board of Selectmen of Jim Hudson's request for the acceptance of conservation easement will not be seen by area landowners as an outright rejection of the easement process as a land-protection measure. The granting of a conservation easement does not imply blanket public use of the land; rather it removes from the land its development rights, thereby insuring that it remains in "green space." Municipalities are legally capable of holding such easements and accepting the responsibility of insuring that no development occur, but other non-profit entities are also able to perform that function. In our area Mahosuc Land Trust is building a reputation for offering the conservation easement route to landowners seeking an alternative to what has often been thought of as Public Relations chairman.

KEEP COMMON CHEM FREE

To the Editor:

Mollycokett Day... a day of fun and relaxation for friends and neighbors to get together. This Mollycokett Day, however, seem to simply be a big party. In these times of drug and alcohol awareness, it was quite sad that so many establishments were spoiling the day by not monitoring their alcohol sales as they should have been. It was our understanding that the alcohol was to be contained and consumed to specific areas with licenses. It was quite surprising to see people strolling up and down main street and on the common carrying their plastic cup with beer in it in defiance of the law. Is a new precedence now being set for each and every Mollycokett day. If establishments selling alcohol on their premises cannot contain the people consuming the alcohol to those premises, then they should not be allowed to sell alcohol at next year's festivities.

The town should require that each establishment hire people to monitor their perimeter area and not allow the people off their site until the beverage has been consumed. (After all, you can't walk out of a bar with a drink in your hand, so why was this allowed on Mollycokett Day?). Each business has the opportunity to profit from whatever they sell, and businesses see this as more of an opportunity with the containment areas provided for the beverage. The common was not the area for the alcohol. The common was supposed to be chemical free. It definitely was not chem-free. Between now and next year, businesses need to sit down and think about what went on this year and what they can do next year to make this situation more manageable. Many people were upset to see the number of plastic cups containing alcohol on the common. This can be controlled.

Maine Audubon offers natural history hotline

The Maine Audubon Society is offering an expanded public information service this summer on natural history and environmental issues.

People have more encounters with the nature world during the summer months when they spend more time outdoors.

These encounters inevitably lead to questions ranging from "When will the robin eggs in my backyard hatch?" to "How can I have a healthy lawn without using chemicals?"

Many of the calls received are about injured or "orphaned" wildlife. If the animal is injured or truly orphaned, Maine Audubon will refer the caller to a licensed wildlife rehabilitator. But frequently, wild animals are best left alone.

Information is available on baby birds, gypsy moths, loons, bird feeding, protecting water quality, enhancing wildlife habitat, loons and many other topics.

Barbara Charry, public information specialist, will answer phone calls or letters, and mail fact sheets or other appropriate information to all interested persons.

The service is free and available Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Aug. 30. Call 781-2330 or write Public Information, Maine Audubon Society, Gilsland Farm, 118 U.S. Route One, Falmouth, Maine 04105.

Future of Andover water system cloudy

By BARBARA ADAMS

Andover water district director Howard Spidell told the Board of Selectmen Tuesday night, "What we have for a water system may not be what it is two years from now. I can envision abandoning the reservoir water, and turning over the reservoir and hydrants to the town and they pay the cost."

Facing a federal mandate requiring a new water system in Andover by June of 1993 at an estimated cost of over $400,000, Spidell told the board, "Divide the 137 customers on the system into $400. And you ain't seen nothing yet as far as the cost of testing for copper and lead and other things."

Individual wells are going to be the best way to go. All the pipes are sealed with lead which is probably leaching. If the cost scares me, I am happy I am retiring."

Spidell said he would not retire until someone filled the job, but also feels that "the next person will have to work full time, as there would be an electronic motor required on the system at all times."

"As close as I can get the engineer," Spidell said, "the cost of a new system would be $400,000. People will be paying $100 a quarter for their water bill. The town pays the district now $5,000 to rent the hydrants and that will go to $20,000. Only 40 percent of the residents are in the water district, so sixty percent have no benefit whatsoever from a new system. I have a gut feeling we are going to get out of the residential water supply. In 1907 and 1908 every house in Andover had a well.

"Every time the bill goes up because of the new system, some people are going to get out, and the bill goes up again. It's a death spiral. We are trying to get a grant for the system based on the median income in 1980. Things may change if a new chemical is discovered or we don't have to put in a new system. We may be able to get a delay so it doesn't have to be completed by 1993."

The subject of the system came about as Fire Chief Ken Dixon had suggested putting a pump by the reservoir on which a switch would be thrown in case of a fire. Spidell said he would have no objection to that. He estimated there are 250,000 gallons in the reservoir, but because of the reasons given above, he said the town should not make immediate plans in regard to the system, as there may be a system.

Selectman Brian Mills told Spidell that he had read in the paper that small towns may be exempt from having to install a new system, but Spidell said he only knew: "Senator William Cohen was sponsoring a bill to give small towns more time to do this."

Emerson said based on an estimated cost of $3,200 for drilling a well, a homeowner paying a $400 yearly water bill would have the well paid for in eight years, and there would be no further charges.

Emerson told Spidell, "The fire chief is not happy with the fire hydrants. I suggest you deal with the fire chief instead of putting us in the middle."

Spidell said he had cleaned all 20 hydrants in town. He told Dixon he would dig up the hydrant in front of the fire station in the fall. Dixon had complained about its leaking profusely, and Selectman Brian Mills said that with help he was still unable to open it last winter when he wanted to flood a skating rink. Spidell explained that the other hydrants do not necessarily leak, although it appears that way, but the water is due to the way the hydrants operate. There is a small hole at the bottom of each one, he said, and when the hydrant is opened, water also goes out of the hole.

"They are all very simple," Spidell said, "not high tech. If new regulations go through, all new hydrants will have the holes plugged, but we are not going to change the other ones."

Dixon pointed out that the hydrant near the church "was used all day one day to wash the church, and another day all day for a car wash, and no water came to the surface."

Spidell said he would also check with the town of Mexico which has some of the same type of hydrants. The possibility of cracking in the fire hydrant in front of the fire station was discussed, and Spidell said he would investigate.

In other business, the planning board notified the selectmen that Dale McKay had resigned from the board. The selectmen tabled appointing alternate Marshall Meisner as a regular member until they learn the reason for the resignation.

The board went into executive session to discuss law enforcement, a possible conflict of interest, and general assistance.

NTL Notes:

Approximately 155 new participants and staff arrived in Bethel on Sunday and Monday for another week of programs in human resource development sponsored by NTL Institute. The international representation among the newcomers includes people from Indonesia, Nigeria, Philippines, France, Korea and Germany, as well as the usual large group from Canada.

At the Monday orientation/transition session, Mary Beth Peters, newly-arrived Overseas Dean, introduced the various staff groups. On behalf of the Bethel/Liaison Committee, Gwyneth Bohr also welcomed participants and staff to the town of Bethel.

NTL's informal Sunrise Seminars, held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center from 7:15 to 8:00 a.m. and open to all in the Bethel community, continue this week as follows:

Tuesday: Doug Adams - Competition: A Boom or a Bust?

Wednesday: Charles Hosford - Risk-Taking: Becoming Aware of Your Biases

Thursday: Mary Lou Michael - Spirit in Organizations

Task Force notes:

The task force which was recently formed as a result of NTL's planned withdrawal from the Bethel area met again at the Bethel Inn Conference Center on Sunday, July 21. It was decided by the group to be referred to as the Bethel Area Task Force, which encompassed the SAD #44 District.

Three sub groups which meet separately gave an update on their recent meetings.

The Economic Development Committee has met with representatives from the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service. The questions asked of these representatives were: How do we develop a Needs Assessment in the Community? and How do we proceed to conduct such assessment? Guidance from these representatives was appreciated.

The Cultural and Educational Committee has established a plan to organize a Bethel Area Community Conference in the fall involving many local groups: e.g. retailers, woods products, health professionals, restaurateurs, environmentalists and many, many more.

The Committee involved with the continued presence of NTL in Bethel reported that there will be some labs held here next year. The interest and support among membership in NTL has been tremendous, and it is felt that, hopefully, with more cooperation between the town and NTL that Bethel will still be an integral part of their activities.

John Bayerlein will gratefully receive any contributions to help defray expenses for such things as printed material and postage. Please send to the Bethel Area Task Force, c/o Mr. John Bayerlein, P.O. Box 468, Bethel, Me. 04217-0468.

The next meeting for the Economic Development Committee will be held at Nan Timberlake's on July 23 at 6:00 pm—41 Church Street. The Cultural and Educational Committee meets every Monday at 7:30 a.m. at the Bingham House and the BATHF will meet on July 28 at the Holiday

House on Main Street, 7:00-8:00 pm. These meetings are open to all people who are interested in promoting our very special area. We need you and your ideas for constructive growth in our community.

Opportunity for students to recognize and achieve realistic goals.

Project Opportunity employs a two-pronged approach to improving student performance. It provides partial funding for S.A.D. #44's S.T.R.E.T.C.H. (Students and Towns Reaching Extra Talents to Challenge Hopes) Program, which places all high school freshmen in support groups led by a faculty member and a successful member of the community. S.T.R.E.T.C.H. groups meet at least once per month during the students' academic career, providing support, encouragement, and positive role modeling.

In conjunction with S.T.R.E.T.C.H., Project Opportunity tracks all students throughout their high school years, awarding quarterly points based on earned grades. Bonus points are given for grade improvement. In this way, students showing significant improved academic performance—the academic "late bloomer"—can earn significant scholarship support upon graduation. Many of these students would be ineligible for conventional programs, which generally base awards on cumulative grade point average.

"As state and local money for education becomes more scarce, Project Opportunity becomes more vital," said Otten. "We've still got a long way to go to reach our endowment goals, but these donations help tremendously. We believe that Project Opportunity has value extending far beyond the immediate region, because it serves as a pilot program for communities wishing to create business/educational partnerships aimed at improving student achievement."

Local woman serves Legion Auxiliary at national level

Jeri Brooks Greenwell of Bethel is currently serving as public relations director of Girls Nation, a week-long youth citizenship program sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Brooks is currently serving the American Legion Auxiliary as president of Mundi-Allen Unit #81, chairman of the Department of Foreign Relations Committee and is completing her tenure as the National Public Relations chairman.

She is employed by Brooks Bros. Inc., as its office manager.

The American Legion Auxiliary, founded in 1919, is the largest patriotic volunteer service organization in the world, comprised of nearly one million members. In addition to Girls Nation, their programs include volunteer service to veterans and their families, child safety and education and the donation of millions of hours and dollars to numerous worthy causes including over $600,000 in scholarships each year.

The 46th Annual Session of the American Legion Auxiliary Girls Nation was held at Marymount University campus July 13-20.

Staff and training coordinators present preliminary introductions to the functions and procedures of the various departments of the federal government and instruct the girls on the legislative process at the federal level.

Sunday events included a visit to Arlington Cemetery, where the girls laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns.

Other highlights of this busy week included a visit to the White House, briefings by Defense Secretary Richard Cheney and a representative of the State Department, tours of the Smithsonian, the Pentagon, Capitol Hill and major national monuments in Washington.

On their final night in Washington, the girls attended a commencement dinner and ceremony, followed by a festive party with their counterparts at Boys Nation being held in Washington that week.

Previous winners were catcher Jerry Verrill of West Paris ('88); shortstop Jon Ladd of West Paris and first baseman John Peterson of Lewiston (co-winners in '89); and catcher Mike Sawyer of Lisbon ('90).

looking for a new challenge," says Nelson, "and trying to hold absolutely motionless in the middle of a foot race is so foreign to runners. It's a mix of opposites, concentration is the key ingredient."

Like most new multi-sport challenges, summer biathlon is growing rapidly. "It's popular," says Nelson, "because we create a 'just for fun' atmosphere." The 1991 Kingsbury Summer Biathlon series includes 80 races across America. Although it's just for fun, series winners share $25,000 in prize money. That's serious fun.

All equipment is provided. Novice competitors can learn biathlon tips at the pre-race familiarization clinics which are free. Call Kirk Siegel (207) 824-2196, for race information.

Feast and fashions at Olde Home Days

A feast and fashions of the past will herald the beginning of Andover Olde Home Days.

The Ellis Rider Riders will be sponsoring a Victorian Fashion Show and dinner on Friday, Aug. 2. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m., in the town hall.

What better way to spend an idle summer evening, than by indulging in a wonderful old fashioned dinner, and watching lovely ladies pass by in their authentic antique clothing. You will be seeing dresses from as early as the 1830s, to the heyday of the "Roaring 20s."

This wonderful collection belonging to Louise Horne of Rumford has been enhanced this year with the addition of some fine millinery. The show will end with a beautiful authentic wedding dress of 1839.

The dinner is a hodgepodge of heritage cookery, with a keepsake menu describing the way each item became popular with our forefathers. It includes as first course, vichyssoise, followed by a garden salad. The main course will be glazed pork loin, baked beans, accompanied by Anadama bread and baking powder biscuits. "Muster Day" gingerbread with real whipped cream will be the finishing touch.

Tickets for this gala event are on sale now, and can only be purchased in advance (before July 31). They are available at Davis Florist, and Lamp Post Enterprises both on Congress Street in Rumford and at Akers's Store in Andover. Admission is $10. Tickets are limited.

Ask A Lawyer

I have a Living Will on file with my doctor that I gave to her two years ago. Recently I heard that the Living Will laws have changed. Can you update me about this situation?

It is now possible for medical science to keep you alive long after you have permanently lost consciousness. You have the right to choose to reject medical treatment when you are conscious, and the legislature and courts now recognize your right to arrange in advance to withhold consent for medical procedures that will prolong your life after you have permanently lost consciousness without increasing your chance of recovery.

You have a right to die with dignity and grace. You also have the right to spare your relatives the burden of deciding what medical treatment you will receive in your last illness. Your Living Will is the way you exercise this choice.

A Living Will is a written declaration that authorizes your doctor and others to withhold medical treatment. It becomes effective when you become unable to make your wishes known because of a medical problem from which you will not recover.

The Living Will must be signed by you. It does not have to be witnessed, although you may wish that validation. A signed copy should be given to your doctor, who will make it part of your hospital record at the appropriate time. If you change your mind, you may revoke it at any time by any manner that effectively communicates that intent.

The Living Will statute enacted by the Maine legislature allows you to withhold consent for extraordinary medical procedures when you have an illness or condition that will result in your death in a short time. Extraordinary medical procedures include respirators, pacemakers and other mechanical methods of providing basic life functions. Before July 1990, however, a Living Will could not order your doctor to withhold nutrition and hydration (given typically through a feeding tube). The law now permits this, so if you signed a statutory Living Will form prior to July 1990, you may wish to sign a new form that includes this provision.

You should know that the statutory Living Will does not cover the situation many people fear most—a condition from which you will not recover, but which leaves you in a persistent vegetative state, perhaps for years. The Supreme Judicial Court of Maine has determined that you have the right to have care withheld if you have clearly declared in advance that you would not want to live in that condition. The Court has accepted statements made to others expressing such desires, but the best and safest evidence is a written statement signed by you that clearly covers the situation.

In addition, recent amendments to the Living Will statute permit immediate family members to order a doctor and hospital to withhold treatment for you when death is imminent. The statute does not authorize these parties to order withholding care for those in a persistent vegetative state. While some courts in other states have so extended this right, our courts to date recognize only an individual's right to decide on the withholding of medical care for herself, not others.

Most of the pre-printed forms follow the statute and therefore cover only ending treatment when death is imminent. If you want to cover the vegetative situation as well, you will need to add language to the form or have someone draft the appropriate document for you. You should also be aware that your doctor and hospital will accept the statutory form, but they may want a judge's permission to stop providing care when you will not otherwise die within a short time. Your written statement should simplify this court procedure.

WORK SKILLS—Telstar High School student Denise Coolidge of Bethel and Hinkley Home School student Russ Jones of Thomaston spent some of their school vacation at the University of Maine at Farmington. The pair took classes, lived on campus and worked in the kitchen. They were two of 55 teens who took part in the Upward Bound Program, which is in its eleventh year at the Farmington campus. The national educational program, founded 26 years ago, takes bright high school kids from low income families and directs them toward college.

David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy
High Blood Pressure and OTC Medicines

According to a recent report, 60% of the medicines Americans have at home are of the over-the-counter (OTC) variety. Anyone who also takes prescription medicines should be aware that some OTCs can affect other medicines and other health problems. In a recent issue of Postgraduate Medicine, Dr. John Bradley reviews the effect of four OTC ingredients on high blood pressure control:

Adrenergic Agents: Adrenalin-like ingredients such as phenylpropanolamine, ephedrine, and phenylephrine can increase blood pressure. Of these three, phenylpropanolamine is the most commonly used in OTC products. Single, immediate-release doses of phenylpropanolamine should be no greater than 37 mg; sustained release no greater than 75 mg.

Ibuprofen: In one study, daily doses of less than 1,200 mg of the pain reliever ibuprofen did not increase the blood pressure of patients who were taking a prescription blood pressure medicine. Higher doses for more than a few days may elevate blood pressure.

Alcohol: This ingredient occurs in many OTC liquids to dissolve medicines. Doses providing the equivalent of more than two drinks a day are believed to raise blood pressure and should be avoided.

Got to go for therapy early in the morning so will start my column today, Sunday. Cloudiness is trying hard to go away and the sun is getting through part of the time. We could have used more rain but will take what we got and be thankful for that much at least. Forests need the rain to help prevent fires and help stop those that are already occurring. Takes a lot to really wet things the way they need to be.

Didn't do too much last Sunday but went to the doctor on Monday for a neck treatment. Sure needed it the way it was pulling sideways. Got a call from Wynona to ask if she could bring Courtney up for a few days and of course the answer was yes. Even when I am having a bad time, I love to have my granddaughters around. My appointment was in the afternoon so she brought Cori just before supper and she and Kariann stayed and ate with us.

Don't remember whether it was Tuesday or Wednesday that Courtney and I picked our first peas and cooked them for lunch. They are the kind where you eat them pods and all and she hadn't had any of that kind but tried a few. We liked them as I had stir fried them and they were crisp and good. We have had lots of greens from the garden and yesterday had a yellow summer squash also. The garden is coming along good and expect we will be freezing peas soon. Russell has sure looked after the garden well and done a lot of work in it that is what it takes to have a good one.

Wednesday was another day for getting a treatment on my neck and hope it would help. Sometimes it does and sometimes it doesn't. Hasn't helped as much as I wished this time.

Went to town on Friday and got groceries and did other errands. Forgot some things too, so had to go again yesterday to get what I had missed.

While Courtney was up here, we played games and I helped her start her cross-stitch picture. She did quite a lot on it and can do it if she tries. Wynona came to take her home on Friday.

Saturday was dance day at Locke Mills and Russell and Peggy went while I stayed home and dozed away the evening in my chair. The medication I am taking now makes me drowsy and doozy so can't think straight at times. Don't like it but what is one to do when the doctors don't know what to do to help you, otherwise.

Had some more of the peas yesterday and steamed those. They were very good also but not as tasty as the stir fried ones. Stir frying is a good way to fix vegetables and meats also. One doesn't have to use much oil for that at all.

Went over to see Laura and Bernard Hutchins this afternoon. They run the D.J. restaurant and store and stay open Sundays in the restaurant until three so don't get to see them very often. They seem to be doing well and am glad for them.

Just as disgusted this week with the folks at the state house as last week and don't seem as though they have learned anything, either. If they were in jeopardy from having things shut down it would make a difference I am sure but as long as it doesn't affect them why should they care. As one lady said, if the governor doesn't like what is on the papers to be signed he will have a spell like a child and not do it just to spite the others. That is the way it seems at least. Hope they get it straightened out soon for everyone's sake.

Don't forget the dances coming up in August at the West Paris Grange. The first one will be August 2nd and the next one on the tenth so mark it down on those fun calendars of yours for things to do in the near future.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Early this morning, as I went outside the sun was just peeping over Noyes mountain directly into my eyes and I heard a full mellow sound containing delicate trills and liquid notes. From a stone near the woods, my wood thrush glanced around with vigilant eye, nodded and seemed to say, "Hello, old friend, have you been waiting to see me?"

From his favorite stone and then from out of the woods his voice continued on and on.

His voice is hard to describe; it is so confluent, soft and rich, seeming to possess all the musical qualifications derived from Nature's self. The Hermit thrush has a voice of the same sweetness and purity of tone but not as powerful and has ventriloquial effect.

Having glorified the south in winter we like to have him here to give forth all the notes that nature has imparted to him. Like our Northern mockingbird, the cat bird, the mellowness of his song with varied modulations and brilliant executions are unrivaled in our home forests.

As the day advanced the sun shone in an unclosed sky and the air was soft and scented with new mown hay and sweet clover.

The mountains in the distance were serene and ageless with strength; the trees rising from the slopes like so many pins in a cushion. But as always, my eyes turned to the pines; these conifers that give forth the finest tree music of the forest. With the whispering of a breeze I listen for the click of the needles one against the other until there comes a delightful hum. It's a pretty time of the year with the blaze of sun upon the water, the bunchberries in bloom and the clovers so full and sweet.

Haying is in full swing and I marvel at the time saved compared to the days when the horses were used. I remember leading the horse to take the loose hay from the hay rack with the hay fork. What a job to store it away on those days. Now with the bales; it's work but much easier and quicker.

I wish now that I could handle the bales instead of the horse.

It has been a busy week at the farm and many have helped with the haying or come just to visit in their friendly way.

Fay and Sally Holt were in Lewiston on Monday and Mary stayed with her Aunt Ann and enjoyed swimming.

On Wednesday Dot Betts and I joined the teacher group for lunch out then spent the afternoon with Doris Slattery.

Zilpha DiArenzo and Fay Holt have shared their homes with ten children and parents for song rehearsals. I have attended those also.

Mary Holt spent Wednesday with her grandmother.

Rena Curtis has had several visitors this week.

Zilpha DiArenzo's son and family are visiting her; also her daughter from Pennsylvania.

Milton Inman and grandchildren, West Paris, were at Camp Maplewood on Thursday.

I have had several callers this week John and Dot Betts visited with family over the week in North Conway.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Pilsifer are enjoying a visit by their son and family.

Howdy, all-I've got great news. My family and some of our friends are going on a vacation to the Niagara Falls and a trip through Canada, exploring all of the wonderful sites along the way. I am really excited.

Boy, has it been hot lately. I'm afraid that to much more of this and I will melt, but it has been some great beach days. The other day as I was scrounging through our basement I found an empty scrapbook and decided to take out all of the old Bethel Citizens I had kept with all my articles in them so I have started that. I think it would be a great thing to look back on. See you soon.

Wednesday, Esther and I took a trip in Wales, Livermore area where Esther placed flowers on her grandparents' graves. We had a picnic lunch near the ponds there.

years! She may be from French Canada via Rhode Island, but they made them good back then (people).

Once again, on the 28 of this month the ladies circle will have a food sale at the IGA in Bethel. I remember back in the 60's a food sale out on the grange hall lawn. It was fun to come from 150 miles from the "Big Apple" up to a food sale while on vacation. This was when Mr. Lowell was being bused to school, so I guess he would not remember it like I do. I had my first taste of homemade bread from the sale.

By the time this is printed Newry's answer to "Stormin Norman" will be home from wrist surgery and driving his wife nuts! I guess Mrs. T. will have to play Gen. Colin Powell to him.

Well chief, you asked who was getting their funny bone pulled or fractured; now you know. I wonder if Deputy A. Fleet or Fireman Willard Wight know the answer to my question of what is the difference between a woods fire and a forest fire? I like the way Alan and his dad get along. Met them at the Sunday River Station the 17th. Alan was driving his dad and keeping him busy. Tink and Matt were painting the town plow together. Another father and son team. I know that Peanut and Big John have worked together. Nice to know that fathers and sons can work together up here. I hope the little peanut got out a kick out of Mollvockett Day.

Speaking of another Wight family, Doris Hale's grandson and friend visited Bill and Sylvia Wight recently.

Must mention that Wilma Stewart is visiting her sister, Karlene Bachelder. That may save me getting a cross town rolling pin from Karlene. Also the Telleys are having Norm's brother and wife over from West Warwick, Rhode Island.

New members in the Newry Fire Department are Gary Wight and Brian Bachelder. Welcome! Still room for more members!

The August meeting of the Ladies Circle will be at the Telley's on August 5, so get well Norman or you'll be surrounded with women.

Fire department has three Wights now in it, so how can we go wrong? All three are related.

WE ARE SO SORRY...

We sincerely apologize to the thousands of people who expected to see our dazzling fireworks display Mollyockett day evening.

We especially apologize to all the people who worked so hard to make the day a success and to our sponsors, The Bethel Inn & Country Club and Sunday River Ski Resort.

We take full responsibility for a mix-up which was completely our fault.

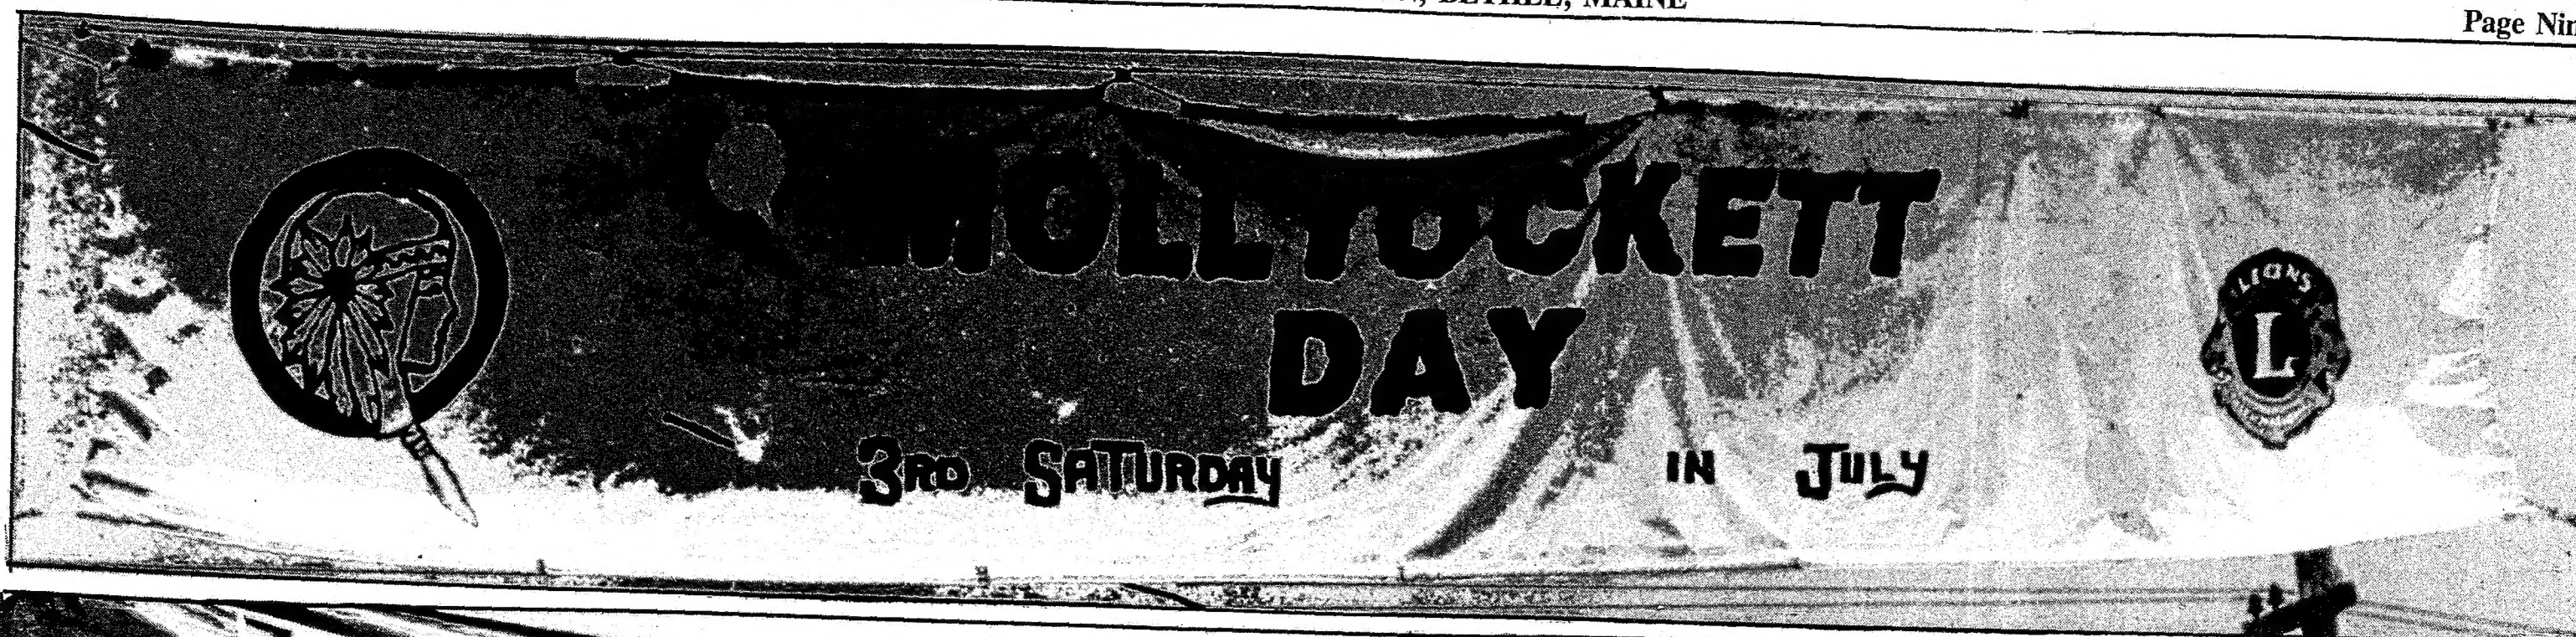

SO WE WILL MAKE IT UP TO YOU

We will have the display at The Bethel Inn & Country Club at 9:00 P.M. Saturday, July 27, and it will be the most spectacular we have ever done in Bethel. We will out-do every Mollyockett celebration we have done in the past, just to say we really are sorry.

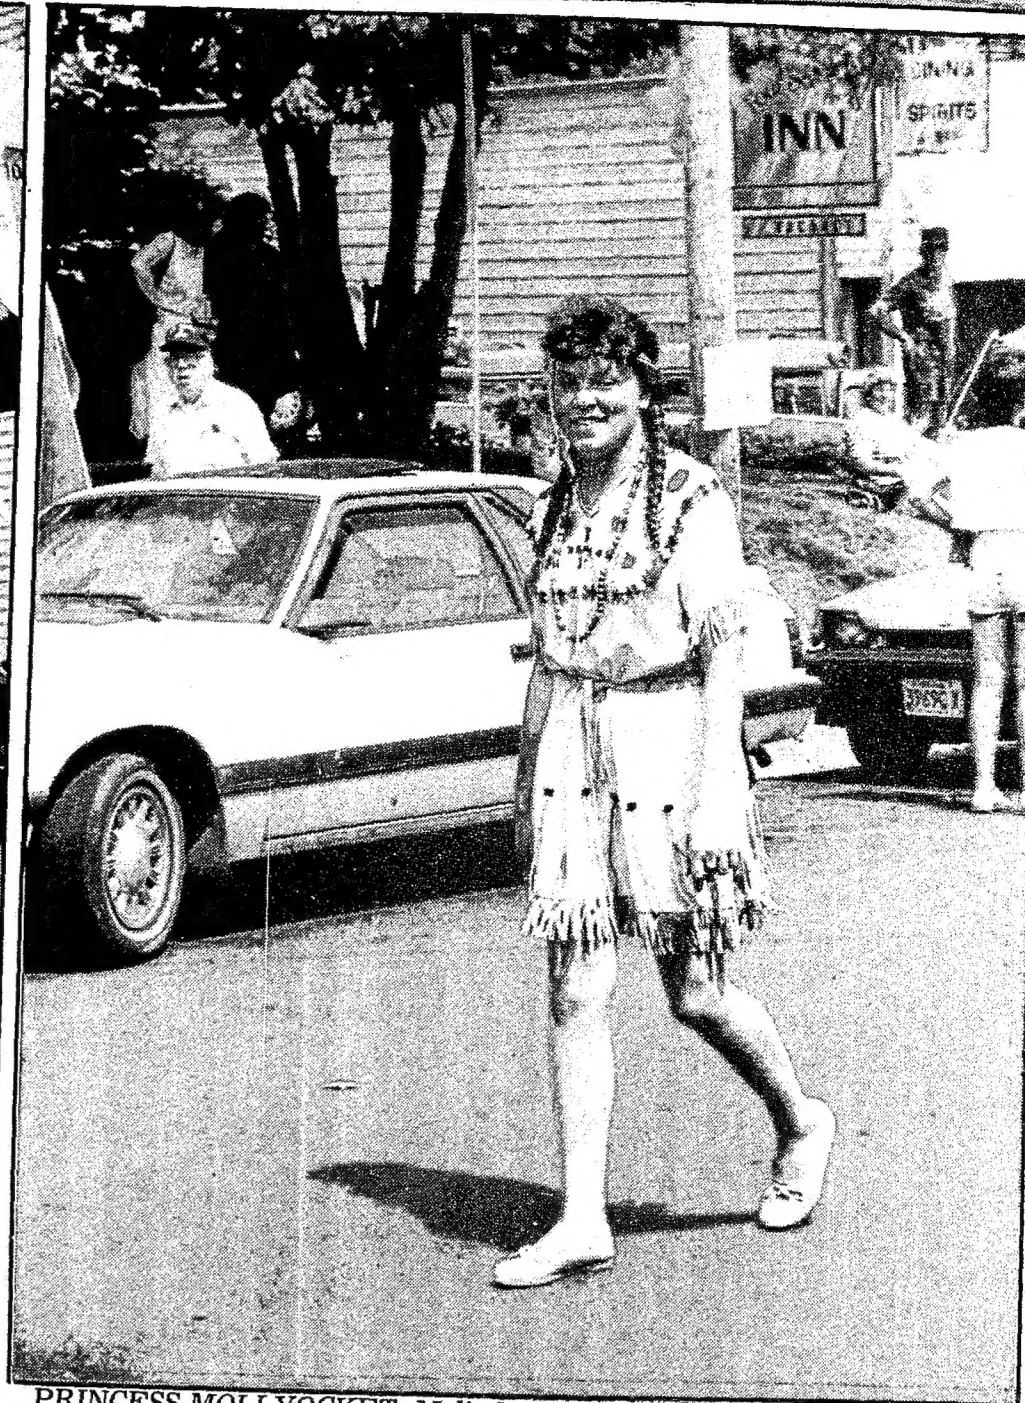

Please come and let us apologize the best way we know how.

BEER GARDENS provided a gemütlich spot to get out of the sun and cool your throat. Some residents have complained of an increase in public drinking this year, but the Bethel police report that the weekend's festivities were relatively quiet and the crowds well behaved. Here, Peter Morton entertains guests at the Four Seasons Inn tent.

BED RACING BEDLAM—The Bethel Emergency Area Rescue Service team races to first place.

THE APPETITE'S BACK—Jake Largesse wouldn't let a little thing like being run over by a truck spoil his appetite. Jake had a close encounter of the life threaten kind last month, when he and his bicycle were hit by a truck, but he was back in form for Mollyockett Day. He and his brother, Adam, enjoyed all the sites—and many of the taste treats.

The summer events for children have been enthusiastically received. Attendance has been very good at the art sessions, play acting and Friday films. There are films on July 19 (Island of the Skog, The Hound That Thought It Was a Raccoon) and July 26 (Snow White and The Wild Swans, Rainbow Serpent, The Witch Who Was Afraid Of Witches). Participation in the summer reading program has been excellent. Many children have already finished their 20 books. The surprise for the successful completors will take place, most likely Aug. 22, details will be forthcoming.

175th ANNIVERSARY—The Middle Intervale Meeting House celebrates its 175th anniversary this year. Built in 1816, it is the oldest surviving church structure in Bethel. This part of town was once known as the East Parish. It was the center of town when Bethel was incorporated in 1796. Militia once drilled on the meeting house's adjacent common. The house was used for religious and municipal purposes. It then remained unused for many years until the Meeting House Society was formed in 1979. The society has carefully restored the building. It is now available for weddings, concerts, church services, reunions and other types of meetings. Later this year, a commemorative service may be held. On Aug. 24, the fifth annual Quilt Show will be held at the meeting house. The winning ticket for the society's quilt will be drawn.

THE LAST STAND—Only one forlorn survivor (if it, in fact, survives) remains from the original nine sterile pear trees planted on Lower Main Street. The Bethel Beautification Committee will try again, probably in the spring, with a new, hardier species, long-leaf linden.

Seventh-Day Adventist Vacation Bible School

The Woodstock Seventh-Day Adventist Church in South Woodstock, Maine had an outstanding Vacation Bible School during the first week of August last year. The school was led by Gina Poland. It had 76 children attending and each child was given a red T-shirt with the theme picture of Jesus surrounded by children on it. It was drawn by Joan Cannuli. Everyone received many blessings during the week and all had a really great time.

Special events included stories by Jim and Goldie Mason who had just returned from a tour of the United States and all the interesting places they visited. Frank and Kay Stahl sang songs accompanied by the guitar as the sun was setting. A special picnic was held on Saturday, and all the children and their families were invited to attend. All enjoyed a treasure hunt looking for Patience, Truth, Love, Kindness, and other virtues of Jesus, plus more singing.

Throughout the week, Rocky Kearley was everywhere with his camera capturing every child on film. At the closing program held Sunday evening, he gave a slide show of his work amid a lot of ooh's, aah's and laughter. There were pictures of the children at opening program each night, learning the new songs, Bible verses and stories about Jesus as our Friend, making all kinds of different crafts, playing games at recess, enjoying their snack, and a few just thinking about the events.

This year's Vacation Bible School is going to be for the whole family, starting at age 3. The theme is "Happy With Jesus". It's going to be held from July 28th through August 4th from 5:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. at the Church on Perkins Valley Road in South Woodstock. Again, each night, there will be different stories, songs, crafts, games and refreshments. An added feature will be a person from different occupations each night to tell the children about their job, such as firemen, policemen, a nurse, a game warden, and a very special visitor.

There is a special afternoon planned again this year for Sabbath, Aug. 3rd with a picnic, treasure hunt and possibly some special animals to pet.

Some special activities are planned for the parents of the children this year also, including a short Bible study, some special crafts and activities.

A WELCOME BREEZE helped to cool Saturday's fairgoers.
